

Mrs. Keane's Irish Soda Bread:

Perfect For St. Patrick's Day!

 40-50min  2 Servings

A St. Patrick's Day celebration wouldn't be complete without homemade Irish soda bread! If there's one thing we know to be true when it comes to baking—grandma always knows best! Inspired by our food photographer's grandma, Mrs. Kean, this soda bread is full of sweet golden raisins and orange zest for a bright, lightly sweetened slice that's perfect on its own or alongside a savory meal. (Serves 12)

1. Preheat oven & prep milk

Preheat oven to 350°F with a rack in the center.

In a liquid measuring cup, combine yogurt and ¾ cup of the milk; whisk until smooth. Finely grate all of the orange zest into milk mixture (enjoy the orange as a snack!). Cut ½ cup cold unsalted butter into small pieces.

4. Shape dough

Transfer shaped loaf to a rimmed baking sheet. Brush top with 1 tablespoon milk. Use a sharp knife to cut an "X" about halfway down into dough (do not cut all the way through).

2. Prep dry ingredients

In a large bowl, whisk to combine 3 cups flour, ⅓ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon each of baking soda and baking powder, and ½ teaspoon salt. Add butter pieces and rub together using your fingertips until pea-sized pieces form.

5. Bake soda bread

Bake soda bread on center oven rack until bread is deeply golden and reaches 180°F internally, 50–60 minutes (start checking temperature at 45 minutes). Remove from oven and let cool completely on baking sheet.

3. Mix dough

Add raisins and milk-yogurt mixture (it might look curdled, that's OK!) to bowl with flour mixture. Use a spoon to stir until just combined and forms a rough dough.

Scrape dough onto counter, and gently knead 2–3 times until dough comes together; shape into a 6-inch circle.

6. Serve

Once soda bread is cool, cut into wedges or slices and serve with apricot preserves, raspberry jam, and softened butter, if desired. Enjoy!
