Rigatoni & Impossible Meatballs with Spinach & Parmesan

20-30min

2 Servings

This dinner is proof that you don't need to spend your whole day cooking a pot of red sauce to enjoy a delicious bowl of pasta and meatballs. The Impossible meatballs are pan-fried to golden-brown perfection, then combined with sautéed onions, spinach, and al dente pasta. We top it all with finely grated Parmesan for a guaranteed, "Mamma mia!" We've got you covered!

1. Prep ingredients

Bring a large saucepan of salted water to a boil. Meanwhile, finely chop 2 teaspoons garlic. Halve and thinly slice onion. Finely grate Parmesan, if necessary. Coarsely chop spinach.

2. Season & shape meatballs

In a medium bowl, combine panko, 1 large egg, 1 teaspoon of the chopped garlic, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon pepper. Add Impossible patties and gently knead or stir to combine. Evenly divide mixture to form 10 meatballs (slightly moisten hands if sticky).

3. Cook meatballs

Heat 1 tablespoon oil in a large nonstick skillet over medium-high. Add meatballs and cook, turning once or twice, until browned and nearly heated through, 5–7 minutes. Stir in onions and cover. Reduce heat to medium and cook, stirring occasionally, until onions are softened, about 5 minutes.

4. Cook pasta

While meatballs cook, add rigatoni to boiling water and cook until al dente, 8–10 minutes. Reserve $\frac{1}{2}$ cup pasta water, then drain pasta.

5. Finish & serve

Stir spinach and remaining garlic into skillet with meatballs; cook until spinach is wilted, about 1 minute. Add pasta, reserved pasta water, and 1 tablespoon butter; cook, stirring, 1 minute. Stir in half of the Parmesan (in large pinches to avoid clumping). Drizzle rigatoni and meatballs with oil. Sprinkle pepper and remaining Parmesan on top. Enjoy!

6. Make it ahead!

To save time at dinner, mix and form the meatballs (through step 2) in the morning, then store them in an airtight container in the fridge until you're ready to cook!
