

MARLEY SPOON

Tiramisu

with Whipped Mascarpone

2h

2 Servings

Traditionally made with ladyfingers, we make our spin on tiramisu by baking a fluffy sour cream cake. Pieces of cake lightly soak in espresso syrup before being blanketed with whipped mascarpone, then topped off with a generous sprinkling of cocoa powder. The final result is layer after delicious layer of creamy decadence. (2p-plan serves 6; 4p-plan serves 12—nutrition reflects 1 slice)

1. Make batter

Preheat oven to 350°F with a rack in the center. Grease a medium square or rectangular baking dish and line with parchment paper. Set mascarpone and evaporated milk in the fridge to chill.

In a medium bowl, combine flour, sour cream, ¾ cup sugar, 2 large eggs, 5 tablespoons oil, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt, and ½ cup water. Whisk until just smooth and evenly mixed.

2. Bake cake

Transfer batter to prepared baking dish and spread in an even layer.

Bake cake on center oven rack until a toothpick inserted into the center comes out clean, 20-25 minutes. Let cool 15 minutes in the baking dish, then transfer to a wire rack to cool completely. Reserve baking dish.

3. Make espresso syrup

In a liquid measuring cup, add espresso powder, all but 1 tablespoon of the remaining sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, and ¾ cup hot tap water. Whisk until sugar is dissolved.

4. Whip mascarpone

In a medium bowl, combine all of the chilled mascarpone and ½ cup chilled evaporated milk. Using a hand-held electric mixer, beat on high speed until mixture holds stiff peaks. Gently fold in remaining sugar, and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Keep refrigerated.

5. Assemble tiramisu

Cut cake into 1x3-inch pieces (1-inch thick). Working one at a time, lightly dunk half of the cake pieces into the espresso syrup and arrange in a single layer in the reserved baking dish. Spread ⅓ of the whipped mascarpone evenly over the cake layer. Repeat process with another layer of cake pieces, dunking them in espresso syrup as you go.

6. Finish & serve

Spread remaining whipped mascarpone over cake in an even layer. Sprinkle all over with cocoa powder.

Chill tiramisu in the fridge for at least an hour (or overnight) before serving. Enjoy!
