

Wild-Caught Shrimp Étouffée

with Scallion Rice

20-30min

2 Servings

Étouffée is a classic New Orleans dish. It usually consists of seafood or shellfish that are smothered in a deeply flavorful sauce as they cook, and then served over white rice. We didn't stray too far from tradition, simmering shrimp with a lively blend of spices and the "holy trinity" of Creole and Cajun cooking: celery, bell pepper, and onions. It all comes together in a seafood broth thickened with roux.

1. Prep ingredients

Finely chop all of the onion. Trim celery, then thinly slice. Halve bell pepper, remove and discard core and seeds, then cut into ½-inch pieces. Trim scallions, then thinly slice, keeping dark greens separate.

2. Make rice

Heat 1 tablespoon oil in a small saucepan over medium-high. Add rice and sliced scallion whites and light greens. Cook until some of the grains turn chalky white, 1-2 minutes. Stir in 1½ cups water and ½ teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil over high. Reduce heat to low, cover, and cook until water is absorbed and rice is tender, about 17 minutes. Remove from heat; keep covered.

3. Make roux

In a medium saucepan, heat 1 tablespoon each of butter and oil over medium-high. Add 2 tablespoons flour and cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture is the color of dark peanut butter, 4-5 minutes.

4. Cook vegetables

Add onions, celery, and bell pepper to the saucepan and cook, stirring frequently, until vegetables are just softened, 5-6 minutes. Stir in 1½ teaspoons Cajun seasoning (or more or less, depending on heat preference), and cook, stirring, until fragrant, about 1 minute.

5. Make sauce

Stir in seafood broth concentrate and 1½ cups water; bring to a boil over high heat. Season lightly with salt. Reduce heat to medium and simmer until sauce is thickened and vegetables are tender, 5-7 minutes.

6. Add shrimp & serve

Rinse shrimp, then pat dry. Stir shrimp into sauce; cook, uncovered, until shrimp are curled, pink, and cooked through, 2-3 minutes. Fluff rice with a fork and stir in all but 1 tablespoon scallion dark greens. Spoon rice into bowls and top with shrimp etouffée and remaining scallion dark greens. Enjoy!
