1. Prep ingredients

Halve pepper; discard stem and seeds, and cut into ¼-inch pieces. Cut celery into ¼-inch pieces. Cut scallion whites and light greens into ¼-inch pieces. Thinly slice scallion dark greens; reserve for serving.

Finely chop 2 teaspoons garlic.

Pat chicken dry; season with salt and pepper.

2. Cook meat & deglaze

In a medium heavy pot, heat 2 teaspoons oil over medium-high. Add sausage in 1-inch pieces; cook until browned and no longer pink, 3–5 minutes. Transfer to a plate. Add chicken; cook, stirring occasionally, until browned, 3–5 minutes. Transfer to a plate.

Add ½ cup water to pot. Scrape up any browned bits from the bottom; transfer deglazing liquid to a cup. Wipe out pot.

3. Cook roux & veggies

Add ½ cup each of oil and flour to pot. Cook over medium heat, frequently whisking and scraping corners of pot, until roux is a tan, peanut butter color, 8–10 minutes (if oil is smoking heavily, lower heat as necessary).

Add scallion whites and light greens, peppers, celery, and a pinch of salt. Cook, stirring occasionally, until softened, 6–8 minutes.

4. Simmer gumbo

Add Cajun seasoning and chopped garlic; cook until aromatic, 1–2 minutes. Add reserved deglazing liquid, 2 cups water, and broth concentrate. Bring to a boil. Add chicken and sausage; simmer over medium-low heat, partially covered, until chicken is tender and sauce is thickened and coats back of a spoon, 30–40 minutes. Stir in 2 teaspoons vinegar; season to taste.

5. Cook rice & serve

Meanwhile, in a medium saucepan, combine rice, 2 cups water, and 1 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil over high heat. Cover and cook over low heat until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed, about 17 minutes. Keep covered off heat until ready to serve.

Serve gumbo over rice with scallion dark greens over top. Enjoy!

6. What is roux?

One of the mother sauces of French cooking, roux is also an important component of many Cajun dishes like gumbo. It's essentially flour and fat (in this case, we use oil) cooked low and slow to form a thickening agent for sauces, soups, stews, and gravy. Make sure to break up clumps of dry flour and get any traces that can hide in the corners of the pot, or else they'll burn!
